Dear Mrs Gardner,

Further to our phone conversation earlier today, I enclose relevant plans which I now hope show everything required. If not please let me know ASAP.

I have included, in the main plan, a yellow, hatched area which represents what is there already (and is to be demolished to make way for the new build). The reason I have done this is to highlight the fact that, whilst it is a substantial extension (albeit single storey) some of it will replace existing structures.

During your visit I'm sure that you will have noted the substantial front and back gardens which I suggest may lessen, in the final decision making, the contention that the proposed amendments to original plans are an 'over-development of the plot' - the objection raised by the Parish Council.

Regards
