Good morning Helen,

Thank you for providing the amended plan. It all measures to scale now however you must also show the window/doors on the floor plan. Please amend.

Kind Regards
Iqraa Malik

Morning Iqraa

Ok I've redrawn again and rescanned via the printer instead. Have a look and see if this is better. I can't work out what's going wrong!

Mnay Thanks
Helen

Hi Helen,

It may be a scanning issue. Could you please review and resubmit the plans via email?

Kind Regards
Iqraa Malik

Hi Iqraa

By all means please try and covert it, and if that doesn't work then come back to me and I'll speak to our architect and see if he can help me. Maybe it's how I scanned it through my phone but it was done on A4.

Many thanks
Helen

Hi Helen,

Thank you for providing the amended plans.

However, the floor plans and elevations are still not measuring to scale. This could be due to a scanning issue. The plans look like they should be A4, with your permission we can convert this to see if they measure to scale although it is possible this may not be a paper issue. Please review.

Kind Regards
Iqraa Malik

Hi Helen,

Thank you for providing the plans.

However, the floor plans and elevation do not measure to scale. Along with this, the block plan requires dimensions from the shed to all site boundaries. Please amend.

Kind Regards
Iqraa Malik

Hi Iqraa

Please find attached the elevation and floor plans along with the location and site block plans. Hopefully this is all now correct. Please let me know if I need to submit anything else.

Many Thanks
Helen

Dear Mrs Bayley,

Following our discussion earlier, I have attached examples of floor plans and elevations above. In regards to hand drawing the plans, 1cm= 1:100 so if the proposed shed is for example 1.4m by 1.6m it would be shown as 1.6cm x 1.4cm and 2cm= 1:50 so if the proposed shed is for example 1.4m by 1.6m it would be shown as 3.2cm x 2.8cm.

Kind Regards
Iqraa Malik
