Dear Michael,

Regarding condition 14, our Conservation Officer requests some clarification. He states:

"I note in the original planning application that the application form describes the windows and doors as being of timber construction. It is therefore disappointing that the current ones proposed are UPVC. It is also not fully clear what is meant by 'generally white UPVC'. Please can this be confirmed?"

The other materials seem to be generally acceptable, although I would want to make sure that the roof tiles would be mixed on all of the roofs or divided between the properties. On a computer screen, the colours appear to be almost contrasting i.e. light brown and a strong red/orange colour. Otherwise, the fact that they are clay tiles is acceptable."

Can you provide a response to this please.
