Dear Sirs

In relation to the future development proposed for Pagham housing, there seems to be very little thought into the creation of a suitable infrastructure to support it. We appreciate the requirements for schools, hospitals, G.P.'s surgeries but an even greater pressure will be on the road system inherited from the days of the horse & cart.

It is inevitable that the rural environment will be destroyed or at least modified but this is an acknowledged price of progress. The road system which includes the A-27 is totally unable to service such a development unless the bypass by the northern route is embraced.

Yours faithfully
