Hi Anna,

I have an application for some extensions at the above property. The proposed floor plans show a future lift and I have had objections from the adjoining neighbour on the grounds of noise. I met the neighbour yesterday afternoon and she said that she can hear everything through the adjoining wall – taps turned on, things being moved, voices etc and so she is worried about the impact of a future lift. The lift would adjoin her study and a bedroom. Would this be something that Env Health would comment on re insulation etc? I can do a consultation request if you think so.

Thanks

Kind Regards
