The decision regarding cutting through the Pagham spit, now in at least its 10th year, has been kicked into the long grass till next year. Thousands of pounds have been wasted on pointless beach scraping and useless filling in. Huge sums on repeated marine surveys. All because the original cut was not maintained. Bureaucracy gone mad whilst people's lives are in great danger. Why couldn't the navy do a training exercise and do it now at no further pointless sums of money being thrown away by incompetence.
