Our ref. 2948

May 2022

The property is a large detached dwelling, accessed via an in-out drive from The Street, Rustington. The site is close to the village centre, and falls within the Rustington Conservation Area, as designated in March 1986 and extended in July 1994.

The dwelling is believed to originate from the 17th Century, and was originally two cottages that were later combined. The front single-storey section was added in the 1820s. To the right of the property was a separate stables, and the fillet of land between the two was later in-filled as a flat roofed two storey section. The stables section was converted into habitable accommodation in 1998. The front of the building is painted stucco, with the rear and sides of brick and flint. The roofs are mainly hipped with slate covering, and the main building features a double pitch design with a central valley gutter.
