Dear Anita

I confirm we will be using a favourite and well know species Green Beech (Fagus sylvatica) which is one of the most popular native hedging plants for good reason. The attractive wavy-edged green leaves turn to russet brown in late autumn and although Beech is deciduous, these leaves are normally retained on the plant throughout the winter giving the privacy and year round shelter of an evergreen hedge. The hedging will be spaced as a double staggered line along the fence either side of the gate on both sides of the fence. The plants will be 2 year old bare root stock which is similar to the hedge that was put in last winter. We will be using approximately 6 plants per metre. There will be approximately 4 metres of hedging and will require 50 plants. They will be planted with compost and bone meal. These will grow over the next few years and we will then trim the hedge to keep it at the height of fence.

ARUN DISTRICT COUNCIL R/237/16/DOC

I hope this is sufficient information for you to agree to the condition.

Kind regards

Simon Parker
