Dear Mr Denton,

With relation to our conversation yesterday the 18th, we are very concerned that we only have until today to forward a Representation regarding these works. The letter only arrived yesterday and the yellow planning application mentions nothing about the intrusive roof that has been planned. I will get together with all my neighbours today and tomorrow and also the SERA chairman to see if it is possible to meet with the architect who designed this and the new owners to see if a compromise can be reached. I know you said views don't count but we purchased Foxwood 20 years ago for the wonderful sea views we had either side of the property in front of us. We have lost the views on the right side due to growth of trees, so the only view we have left is the left side between "Windsong" and the house in front. We will lose that view too if this work goes ahead which is a matter that will cause considerable stress to my household and one I vehemently appose. I must add also that my immediate neighbours are also very concerned, especially the dormer windows to the front which will be removing our privacy. I will contact you again once I have met with all the affected neighbours.

Yours faithfully,

Mr Wyles. (Foxwood).
