Dear Sir / Madam

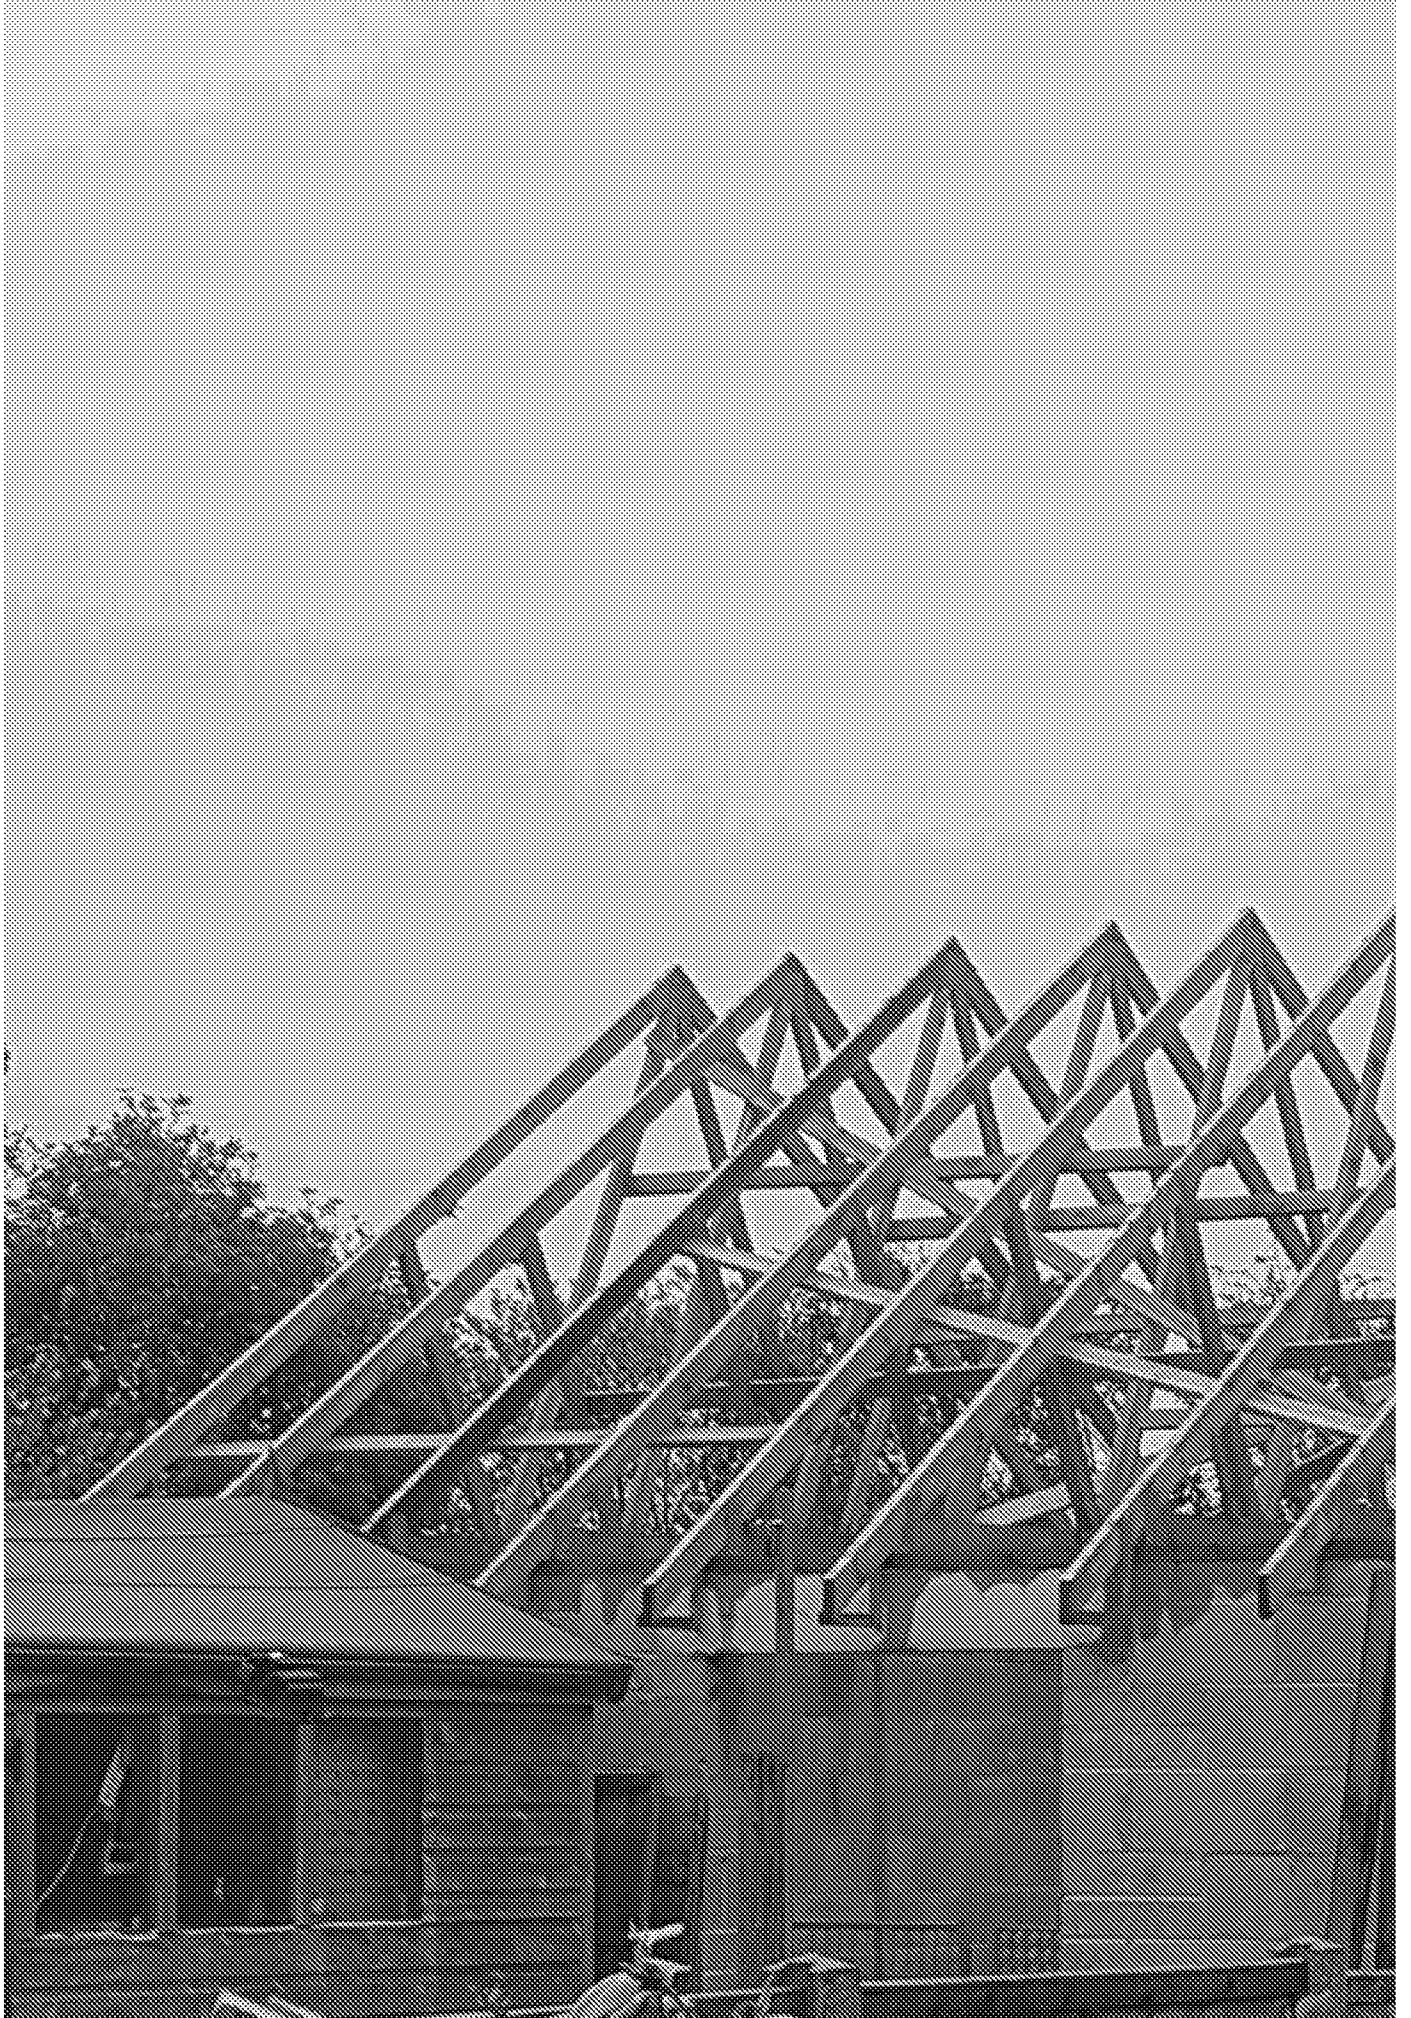

I recently sent you an email regarding my neighbour building a double garage at the back of his property. I feel the situation is getting worse with each passing day . We come back from holiday so see a base going down . Then sides are built that are 2- 3 bricks higher than our fence . The roof struts appear and it now looks more like a small bungalow, not a double garage. Everytime I enter my garden to go to the bins , let my dog out to play , hang my washing out I am confronted with this huge structure. It brings me to tears how much it is obscuring my garden . I have lived in the property for 40 years and am glad my parents cannot see what is happening.

I now don't want to sit in my garden in the coming months because the building is all I will be faced with. If the building had a flat roof maybe it wouldn't be so in your face but as it is I am lost for words .

I am sending these photos so that you can see what I am being faced with each day which is making me extremely upset . I feel like I have lost my love for my own garden . I can't even look out of any bedroom windows or my conservatory window without being faced with this huge structure.
I also thought Mr Austin had to wait before building work could take place . I was under the impression that the final decision was not being made until this month yet 3/4 of the building work has already taken place .
Yours sincerely
Linda Buckmore
