CONCLUSIONS

Policy D DM1 sets out 13 design aspects of which applications should be assessed against. These include: Character, Appearance, Impact, Innovation, Adaptability, Crime Prevention, Trees, Public realm, Layout, Public Art, Density and Scale.

Policy D DM4 sets out criteria for which applications relating to extensions and alterations of existing buildings must be assessed against. They generally seek to minimise the impact of the proposal on the character of the host dwelling, its neighbours and the locality.

Arun recently adopted a Design Guide which provides detailed guidance that will help raise design standards across the District. Developments should respond to the distinctiveness and characteristics of their surroundings in terms of scale massing and materials, protect the amenities of occupants and neighbours and seek to minimise energy consumption and improve environmental performance. In this instance, the front and side extension should also not disrupt building lines, maintain and enhance frontages, be subservient to the host dwelling and respect the space between buildings.

Rustington has a made neighbourhood plan and policy 2 is of relevance and states that proposals should have regard scale, density, massing, height, landscape design, layout and materials which reflect local architectural and historic character.

VISUAL AMENITY

The porch has a scale and massing appropriate for its intended use and when compared with the host dwelling. The eaves of the porch will match the existing and the materials used in its construction will match those currently found on site.

The porch will be visible from the street yet it will be behind the most easterly elevation and therefore its scale is deemed subservient to the host dwelling.

Having regard to the design and visual amenity, the proposal is deemed to accord with DDM1 and DDM4 of the Arun Local Plan and the Arun Design Guide.

RESIDENTIAL AMENITY

The porch infills a dog-leg found in the primary elevation and does not reduce the minimum separation distances between the host dwelling and neighbouring properties. Being located to the south of the host dwelling it is not anticipated that overshadowing of neighbouring properties will occur.

Windows to the porch are located at ground floor level and will not achieve views not already available to the host dwelling.

It is therefore considered by virtue of being overbearing, overshadowing and overlooking that the proposed extensions accords with policy DDM4 of the Arun Local Plan and Part M of the Arun Design Guide.

SUMMARY

The proposed development is deemed to accord with the relevant development policies and as such is recommended for approval subject to the following conditions and informatives.

The Council is also permitted to control the use of property in accordance with the general interest and the recommendation for approval is considered to be a proportionate response to the submitted application based on the considerations set out in this report.
