Good morning Ken,

The works at the above address are now complete.

During the excavation works, including ducting, lamp columns, draw pits and general levelling, we never encountered any contaminated soil or other material.

Nearly all the excavated ground was virgin soil apart from a small amounts of rubble and concrete left over from the greenhouse that once stood on the site.

We carried out regular daily inspections of excavations as work proceeded, noting any changes in ground conditions as they became evident.
Please find attached our site excavation record sheet for the duration of the works.

Please contact me on the number below if you have any further queries.

Many thanks.

R Bailey
