Hi Stephen,

Please see agent response below to your recent response on this application. Can you advise whether the condition may be discharged or not?

Simon

Dear Simon

I refer to Stephen Gee's email below and the recommendations he makes therein.

I have spoken to Westerleigh, the crematorium developer and operator, and they will use the new junction onto the A259 as soon as practicable, however, as Stephen acknowledges the planning condition does not require that. It would therefore be inappropriate and unreasonable to formally impose this as part of a discharge of conditions. Grevatt's Lane West is a public highway so it is not appropriate to block the road. The onus here is on the highway authority to allow access to the new junction through their approval processes as soon as possible.

I refer to section 59 of the 1980 Highways Act which has also been identified, this is not a part of the planning consenting regime and is not necessary to discharge the condition. This is a separate approval process.

I hope this is helpful, but please let me know if you need any more information.

Kind regards,

Lisa

Simon,

I would recommend that the document identifies the possibility of the new junction onto the A259 being used and proposes that should this be completed before construction works are complete that all construction traffic switches as soon as possible (I do acknowledge that the condition for the delivery of these improvements is prior to occupation)

I would also recommend that the applicant enters into a section 59 agreement.

Section 59 of the 1980 Highways Act - Extra-ordinary Traffic

The applicant is advised to enter into a Section 59 Agreement under the 1980 Highways Act, to cover the increase in extraordinary traffic that would result from construction vehicles and to enable the recovery of costs of any potential damage that may result to the public highway as a direct consequence of the construction traffic. The Applicant is advised to contact the Highway Officer [REDACTED] in order to commence this process.

Once these issues are included I'd be happy to recommend no objection.

Regards

Stephen
