

Further Drainage Engineer comment

Hi Simon,

From what I can tell the layout has been amended to deal with Mark's comments. This is not trying to deal with mine? The lack of amended calculations to justify the design would suggest they are happy to deal with it by condition. It would be helpful if the RTZ areas and RPZ are included on the final DOC Drainage Layout, as the design is likely to require alteration once the calculations have been updated and appropriate infiltration testing completed (if they keep the soakaways at the same depth).

Hi Mark,

In response to your stated concerns, please see revised site plan & section to show amendment to road layout plus a revised drainage plan. The agent states that: "All of the domestic soakaways have now been located outside of the RTZ areas and the length of the road (outside plot 6) has been shortened so as not to encroach on the RPZ at the end of the road." Can you provide your further comments.

Sarah – FYI as the drainage layout has been amended - but I assume your comments recommending conditions would not alter.

Kind Regards
