Dear Simon,

I would like to object to the above planning application. The area is not big enough for so many large dwellings accommodating possibly 50 people, 30 cars or more - the entrance is too small already for the properties there and is dangerously situated on a bend. I also doubt that the drainage required for that number of houses is sustainable in such a low lying area. The unique character of the hamlet of Flansham would be ruined by such a squashed up group of modern houses with tiny little gardens if any right at the entrance to the Lane.

Kind regards,

Judith de la Fuente,
Flansham House,
Hoe Lane Flansham.
