Dear Mr Davis,

I read with interest the Heritage Statement added latterly to the application in Hoe Lane.

Whilst it does include the Conservation Officer's original report , the author plays down the listed and locally listed properties in the vicinity which contribute to the unique asset of Arun which is the hamlet of Flansham in its current format.

Most of the owners of these buildings take their responsibilities very seriously as custodians of such properties and would wish to maintain the historical core of the hamlet for the benefit of all in the area.

The existence of a Conservation Area here is a moot point; the responsible parties appear to have limited resources to investigate this further so any planning decision should be deferred until the Conservation Area matter has been concluded.

Yours sincerely,

W J Rogers
