This area floods in the autumn nearly every year. What is the point of building on land which is regularly flooded? Surely there are more suitable places to build homes, where the land is dry and logically more stable. There are no shops or real jobs within walking distance, and so will increase traffic in the area when we are all supposed to be cutting down on such things to save the planet. Apart from pure profit, I really do not see the logic of building on this site.

Your views as made above will be considered before the application is determined.
