Hi David

What I would say, just having inspected some random manholes on the system, it is quite evident that the approved drawings have not been entirely followed and there are some notable changes/aspects which could have a significant impact on the system in terms of its hydraulic performance and future maintenance.

I need to have further discussions with our consultant on this.

Hi David

I have undertaken a site inspection this morning following a discussion with our consultant. I will be relaying my findings back to our consultant who will then advise further.

Hello Paul,

Could you please give me an update on the below?

We have had a response recently from external consultants being used with a list of items they would like addressed which I don't feel pays any attention to the situation raised, nor to what has been previously discussed and agreed.

It would be great if perhaps Peter and I could meet with you on site to go through the situation and agree how we can resolve the matter to clear the condition.

Kind regards
