Dear Lisa,

I had a message from Neil Crowther yesterday to say he is meeting Engineers again next Monday and it is expected that the backlog will have been dealt with by then. He is then going to discuss which applications need to be revisited (i.e. where we have sought further comments). I will therefore have an idea of when to expect your comments after then.

Simon.

Dear Simon

Can you advise if the Engineers are now content with the additional data and our advice about the scope of their comments in relation to matters already determined?

Are we back in the queuing system? Can you advise when we can expect an outcome?

Thanks for your help.

Kind regards,

Lisa
