Dear Mr Davis,

I have seen the report of the meeting you recently had with the developers, which looks somewhat of an improvement, thanks for that.

But I am very concerned that plots 36 - 41 are still on a different orientation to the original plans that were passed, being closer to our listed property than previously agreed in the outline consent, and that because of the field being on higher ground of at least 1.5 metres, that a row of two storey houses so close to our boundary will significantly impact on the setting of the Listed Barn.

I would like to ask -

(a) Why is the Council not requiring the developer to stick to the previously approved plan for this part of their development site?

(b) If the orientation of the houses has to change and if they have to be closer to our boundary, why single storey barn type houses aren't being required here, as they have been elsewhere on the site?

I would like to try again to request that you visit the barn so you can see for yourself the view we will have from our property, but more importantly, the overwhelming visual impact the current plans will have if they go ahead.

Image 1 shows the ground levels sloping up from the road, with the barn being built on ground which is level with the existing road.

Image 2 shows how the ground slopes down to the barn.

Image 3 is a view from our kitchen window towards the 2 storey houses on our boundary.

Please try to alter this for the sake of the barn.

Regards,

Angela Broughton
