Dear Mr Davis,

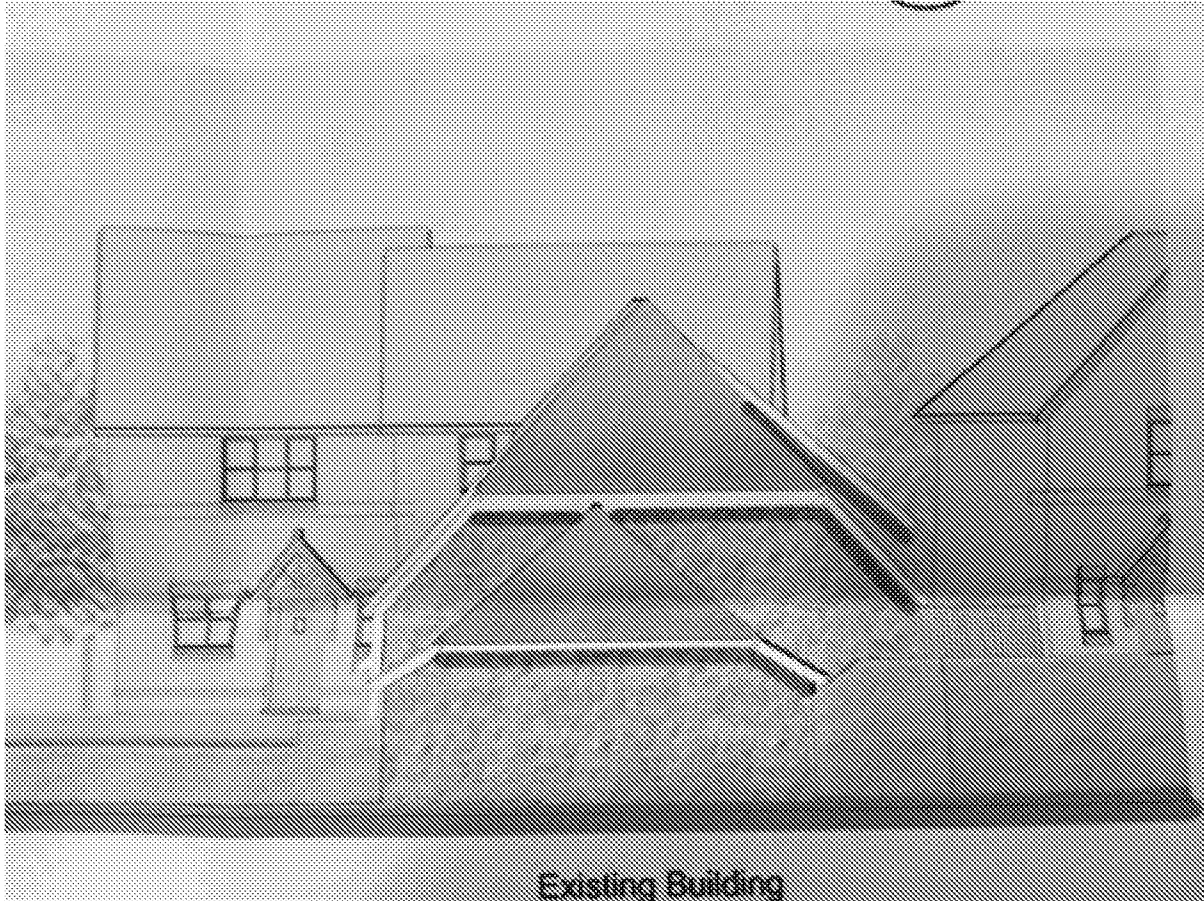

Many thanks for phoning me back.

I came to your offices today to try to have a meeting with you to show you personally the impact the building of two storey houses will have on our cottage, "The Byre" which was built 1 meter lower than the field and is only 3 meters from the boundary fence, directly facing plots 38-41

Plus to also show you the impact the proposed two storey houses will have on the listed barn "Elm Barn", plots 36-41.

You can see from the coloured elevations the houses towering above the barn, with our single storey kitchen/dining room, which is at the north end of the barn being totally overwhelmed.

I still cannot understand the logic as to why the east field has single storey houses with barn shaped roofs to lessen the impact on the houses in North End Road and are not listed, whereas next to us, the houses overlooking us and built on elevated ground of approx. 1.5 meters above our ground level, are 2 storey, do not have barn shaped roofs similar to our roof or any flint elevations in keeping with the surroundings.

Once again I am requesting a site visit so you can see this for yourself before it is too late and to once again respectfully draw your attention to the fact that the new National Design Guides state that a new site should contribute positively to the local character by integrating into the existing surroundings and relate well to them, which this clearly does not.

Regards,

Angela Broughton
