Trees at Field House, Walberton BN18 0AS

I have made a recent visit to this property following concerns by the owner as to the safety of the trees along the east boundary and bordering Yapton Lane.

There are seven hybrid poplars and two sycamores in a row and which are close to, (in some cases in contact with), an electricity supply line running north-south at a height of about 4 – 5m. The poplars are up to about 15m in height. These trees have been pollarded historically at about 1m, or so, below the cable and have now grown up to be a hazard. The sycamores are young trees but are in the same hazard category. In the interests of general safety I have recommended felling the sycamores and reducing the poplars to the original pollard sites.

Signed,

Stuart Power.
