Hey,
I hope this message finds you well!

Walking through Yapton, it's hard to imagine how it may possibly look in the years to come. To see this lovely little farm go waste for another housing development, is truly a shame. With all the new interest quickly rising in live stock, outdoors pursuits, horse training, glamping etc, surely there will be better investment from someone or a business to bring something of interest to Yapton in the very near future. I've spoken to numerous locals who are becoming greatly tiered of see the possibility of more housing. The amount of accepted developments is enough, let alone along with the potential others to come. Yapton has become rapidly congested with cars, park and moving. The morning traffic is clogged throughout the whole village, and on towards Barnham & Walberton. To build more developments will only ads to this already severe problem. For the other nearby properties to be built by everybody's favourite Redrow Homes, they mentioned on the advert 'a quiet village' obviously none of the developers themselves have spent time in Yapton with the incessant traffic. With the past year so far, it has become clear how people long for outdoor space, nature & community. Yapton village is removing all of these. Especially land right by the school, surely there is better use of green space than another housing development? Having natural green spaces scattered throughout the village, has always added charm to the village, along with all the much needed wildlife. Yet again, this is removed in aid of concrete. We live in a period where local councils and parishes need to be forward thinking in how to make their villages have better balance, be healthier and greener. Yapton is seemingly far behind in this mindset.
