Dear Mr Davis,

We have 'spoken' before on previous applications for the same plot.

I notice yet another attempt to push this through. Although the number of dwellings would suggest a more rational approach to what is an awkward siting, the objections as noted in the past still very much remain, and the principal issue being the joining of Hoe Lane at the A259. Owing to the existing narrowness, which frequently causes dangerous situations, it would be fatuous to assume approval could be granted without this and the potential ruination of a rare hamlet being addressed.

I leave it to your hitherto good judgement.

Kind rgds.,

PATRICK HEDGES
