Thank you for getting back to me and I now understand the situation a little better. I am now aware that a yellow notice was posted on the "island " in Park Road and one at the entrance to Park Drive, none however were posted near the houses most affected, the cul de sac part of Park Drive.

I realise that there is probably no legal necessity that work would be beginning but a polite notification that groundwork was starting would have enabled us to be aware that we could not have windows open or hang out washing etc. This would also have set the whole process off in a much more friendly manner.

Sincerely

Linda Floodgate
